climate
species
dynamics disequilibrium
vegetation
may yr
plant
migration
lags
time ecosystem
populations
changes
range local forest
rates
responses
conditions
also change
population likely expected
community
expansion habitat dispersal suitable
Fig
equilibrium
plants
fi climatic response
shifts transient even strong warming
trees
scales within Svenning
example often
well recent many evidence
woody
high studies
slow
models DISEQUILIBRIUM
evolutionary potential
due development increase postglacial
Europe
North
Birks
northern America
sometimes across distribution structure expansions ecological future
losses
modeling estimated carbon landscapes
occur structural small suggest processes
important succession
tree
leading-edge include probably area
large beyond
study
landscape
next centuries several driven established require invasive leading soil Skov
lag
fast
km
soils
much including Birks
mean
scale
cases global represent temperature factors spread migrational
effects
given key predicted lower adapted cause native
extinction strongly successional
DYNAMICS
productivity
decades southern disturbance
model still following
Fagus
growth
per new mean